

Second Lt. Ben Washburn, 90th Missile Security Forces Squadron, encourages his team during the four-person push-ups. Members are required to carry a log down to the pit, do as many push-ups as they can, and carry the log back to the start. Photos by Senior Airman Tonnette Boyd

No pain, no gain

Security forces compete in Crow Creek Challenge

12TH ANNUAL CROW CREEK CHALLENGE RESULTS

- Top team:
90th Security Forces Group Tactical Response Force Team
Staff Sgt. Ricky Purdy, Senior Airman Dennis Scholl, Airmen 1st Class Brandon Egbert and Bradley Stratton
- 2nd place:
90th Missile Security Forces Squadron, Flight 7
Staff Sgts. Danny Cantrell, Justin Hebert, Senior Airmen William Ballew and Keith Pippin
- 3rd place:
90th Security Forces Squadron Gate Section
Staff Sgt. Joshua Woodard, Senior Airman Celsa Reyes, Airmen 1st Class Carey Fuller and Steven Smith
- Best Fire Team leader:
Staff Sgt. Erick Beck, 790th Missile Security Forces Squadron
- Best Fire Team member:
Senior Airman Jennifer Watts, 790th Missile Security Forces Squadron
- Team Pain:
790th Missile Security Forces Squadron, Response Force 1
Senior Airmen Edward Nelson, Pedro Palmer, Aidan Zamborsky and Airman 1st Class Paris Carman
- Top Gun:
Senior Airman Andre Berto, 90th Missile Security Forces Squadron

Tech. Sgt. Reginal Bowers, 90th Security Forces Group, darkens the gas mask of a Crow Creek challenger in preparation for the patrol orientation station. As part of the Crow Creek Challenge, teams are required to find an ammunition can through a series of obstacles using only their sense of touch and teamwork.

Senior Airman Andre Berto, 90th Missile Security Forces Squadron, carries fellow team member Senior Airman John Maule, also a member of 90 MSFS, to the finish of the “Team Pain” station of the challenge.